EXAMINER'S AMENDMENT

1. An examiner's amendment to the record appears below. Should the changes and/or additions be unacceptable to applicant, an amendment may be filed as provided by 37 CFR 1.312. To ensure consideration of such an amendment, it MUST be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee.

Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Mr. Mikael Havluciyany on 3/30/05.

The application has been amended as follows:

IN THE CLAIMS:

In Claim 19, line 4, after "wherein" inserted --the other--.

In Claim 19, line 4, deleted "proximal" and inserted --distal--.

In Claim 19, line 4, deleted "toa" and inserted -- to a --.

In Claim 20, line 2, after "user;" inserted --a pair of slider extension tubes coupled to said nasal cannula;--.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: As to claims 19, 20, and 16 respectively, the prior art of record does not teach nor render obvious the overall claimed combination of an oxygen delivery system, a nasal cannula, or a method of delivering a fluid to a user including a stop plugged at a distal end of one of the pair of extension tubes, with the other one of the pair of extension tubes adapted to be coupled to a supply of air or fluid source. It should be noted that the closest prior art that teaches a plug in a cannula device is to Winthrop et al. (US 5,682,881) and to Dali et al. (US 3,682,171). Winthrop et al. teaches a nasal cannula having a pair of extension slider tubes 20. However, both pair of extension tubes are connected to a ventilator circuit attachment 12. The plug 87 that is taught in Winthrop et al. is found in a mean airway pressure measurement tube 84, which is connected to one of the pair of extension tubes. Furthermore, one of ordinary skill in the art would not be able to construe the measurement tube 84 as one of the pair of extension tubes, since claims 16, 19, and 20 require each of the pair of extension tubes to be received in a recessed channel of the respective ear pieces. Finally, it would not have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide ear pieces with recessed channels as Winthrop et al. teaches away from the use of such a securement (See Col.1 and Col. 2 of Winthrop et al.) device to be used with the nasal cannula system nor would it have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the nasal cannula of Winthrop et al with the measurement tube being construed as the other pair of extension tubes with an ear piece having a recessed channel since one would not be able to space the pair of extension tubes from the ears of the user. Dali et al. teaches a nasal cannula with one extension tube 26, with the plug 28 found at one end of the central portion 22.

Furthermore, one of ordinary skill in the art would not be able to construe the central portion 22 as the other one of the pair of extension tubes, as 22 would not be able to be received in a recessed channel of an ear piece type securement device. Dali et al. also teaches away from the use of an ear piece type securement device by providing a nose bridge 10 instead. Finally, it would not have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the plug 28 in the nasal cannula having a pair of extension tubes of the prior art of record since both pairs of the extension tubes of the nasal cannulas of the art of record are connected to a fluid source.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
